This school is for BOTH SEXES and ALL GRADES. It has been under the continuous management of Thomas W. As a college preparatory school its efficiency may be known from the fact that during the past year it was represented at Colimbia, Colimbian, Cornell, Hobart, Lafayette, Lebigh, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Yale and others. A Vigorous Campaign to Be Started in Cuba Next Month.

He Discusses the Advantage of Using Small Bodies of Troops-The Conflict Like the Western Indian Wars.

ficm Santa Clara, October 5, via Key West, Fla., today says that Gen. Campos said in response to a series of questions: "At present the military situation in Cuba is satisfactory. The rebellion in Cuba has attained greater scope than I anticipated when I embarked from Spain. At present gents scattered about the country in the

there are numerous small bands of insurprovinces of Santiago, Camaquez and Lavilprovinces of Santiago, Camaquez and Lavillas. In Matarzas there are only a very few rebels against authority. The insurgents are not all armed, and their supply of ammunition is deficient in some districts. There is a considerable number of Spanish troops on the island, though it is not as large as the conditions warrant. I have given orders that prisoners shall not be cruelly treated, and that wounded insurgents who may fall into the hands of the treops shall be well cared for. I do not kill prisoners. The war will be conducted on definite policy in my operations. The coundefinite policy in my operations. The coundefinite policy in my operations. definite policy in my operations. The country paths are generally too bad at the present time for a persistent campaign. Again, I do not wish to expose the soldiers continuously until the season is improved.

Plan of Campaign.

"In November there may be looked for as active and as aggressive campaign as l can make. My present plan is to divide the troops into small detachments, the number of each column varying according to circumstances. Were I to send out a column of, say, 5,000 men, they would have the march for their pains. They would see no enemy. The insurgents would melt away in the dense and difficult country where they find shelter. They follow a good policy—military policy—for their side of the case, for they know they could not withstand the attacks of regular solders. stand the attacks of regular soldiers About this portion of Santa Clara I divide the soldiers into detachments of two or the soldiers into detachments of two or three hundred men. If the enemy were to suddenly assail one of these small bodies in greatly superior numbers they might do mischief; but there generally would be enother detachment somewhere, who could go to the relief of their friends. In the Remedios district and in Santos Espiritu the columns are larger—600 or 700 men—as the rebels, especially in the former district, are in greater numbers and better armed. In Santiago the largest column of all, say, 1,000 to 1,300 men, is required.

Comparing the Rival Forces. "The regular troops have an advantage, for the officers send their men in. They are disciplined troops. "The insurgents are without discipline and they rarely are aggressive fighters. Drive a Cuban into a corner, with his back to the wall, and he will fight like a hungry wolf. Witness the action of Amador Guer ra and twenty men when they were forced ra and twenty men when they were forced to fight sixty Spanish soldiers near Manzanillo. Guerra showed his Spanish blood, and he met his death like a brave man. "If our soldiers became so much scattered in the wild fastnesses occupied by the insurgents they would be in danger, for the insurgents know every point suitable for an ambush; they know the paths, 'he by-ways and the fords of the most difficult country in the world. During the last war the Spanish troops were at times placed at a great disadvantage because they did not find the best river fords.

"The lack of arms and ammunition has always been a drawback to the Insurgents."

"The lack of arms and ammunition has always been a drawback to the insurgents. They usually have nearly as many unarmed men as armed ones. When there is an engagement the unarmed men carry off the dead and wounded, taking care to secure the fallen man's arms first. The wounded are a clog on the Spanish columns during an expedition; they have to be carried.

Sanitary Conditions.

"I have been satisfied with the sanitary condition of the army during the past sickness than I expected. Yellow fever has not been epidemic the present year except in a few localities, and the losses from that cause have been comparatively small. Some of the newly arrived battalions which landed toward the end of that month have landed toward the end of that month have had the vomito (yellow fever). At the present time there is fever in the orient and in Camaguey. Havana has escaped an epidemic, and in Matanzas and Las Villas there has been only a little fever. The soldiers are having paludial (malarial) fevers now, and are likely to have them during the next two months. I expect this.

Bitterness of Feeling Increasing. A dispatch to the London Times from Havana, dated October 5, says: "I have just returned from a long tour through the province of Santa Clara. I found that the pitterness of feeling between the Cubans and Spaniards is growing stronger. While the number of insurgents in the province of Santa Clara has increased lately. I do not see how it is possible for the insurgents to make an attack upon the Spanish forces make an attack upon the spanish forces, ur less they obtain a great addition of arms and ammunition. Judging from the conversation of Captain General Martinez de Campos and the general distribution of troops, it is evident that a detailed military occupation of the island is considered necessary at the present time, and probably containing the contraction of the contracti sary at the present time, and probably continuing next year.

"The sugar planters of Santa Clara express great uncertainty whether to make sugar. A crop is lost, and this means absolutely ruin to many estates. I saw a circular letter, sent to the sugar planters of the southern districts of Santa Clara, demanding contributions for the insurgent cause according to the value of the property, and stating that if the demands were not complied with, destruction would follow.

"In an interview, a copy of which I cabled on Thursday last, Captain General De Campos expressed annoyance at the attitude of the United States at the present time, *specially regarding the attempts of time, *specially regarding the attempts of the Spaniards, to prevent the landing of expeditions, and quoting the Allianca steam-ship affair as an instance of unnecessary trouble.

The Eighteenth Connecticut Dedicates a Monument at Winchester l Correspondence of The Evening Star.

WINCHESTER, Va., October 9, 1895. The survivors of the eighteenth Connectiut regiment dedicated here today, in the National cemetery, a monument to those of their late comrades who fell in the battles around Winchester, June 12-15, 1863. There were about fifty veterans of the regiment present. They drove all about the city and region, visiting familiar places. At 10:30 o'clock they drove to the cemetery, the Friendship Military Band furnishing march music. At the cemetery prayer was offered by Rev. A. C. Green of the veterans; address by Dr. S. H. Lupton, mayor of Winchester, who gave them a hearty welcome, which was responded to by Gen. W. G. Ely. Lieut. Caruthers presented the monument from the state of Connecticut, which was accepted by Capt. Brady, who formally turned it over to the National cemetery, and was then received by Mr. Thomas Savage, the superintendent. The onument cost $5,000.

Col. D. Torrence delivered the oration and a recitation, "Old Comrades," was recited by Professor B. F. Koons of the one hundred and twenty-third Connecticut regiment. At 7:30 this evening the Connecticut boys were the guests of Turner Ashby Camp, Confederate Veterans.

The eignneenth Connecticut was composed of nearly one thousand of the best young men in the state, and was recruited principally in the cities of New London and Bridgeport. In its ranks were to be found lawyers, physicians and members of many professions, not excluding several who had been professors in colleges, but had given up their chairs to take part in the war. the war. When first mustered into service the regiment was ordered to duty in one of the hastily constructed forts near Baltimore, and after several months of guard duty was ordered to Harper's Ferry. Soon after reaching there Early began his campaign down the valley, and the eighteenth was ordered to Berryville, Va., where, on June 12, they were attacked by a portion of the advance guard of the confederate army, and after some severe fighting driven back to Winchester, ten miles distant, where they took refuge in one of the forts.

From this time until the regiment was annihilated, so far as fighting for the remainder of the war was concerned, three days later, they were in battle both day and night, and their losses during these few days amounted to more than six hunders and their losses during these few days amounted to more than six hunders and their losses during these and night, and their losses during these few days amounted to more than six hundred men killed, wounded and captured.

The brave fight made by the eighteenth took place about four miles north of Winchester. The regiment was practically sacrificed to enable Gen. Milroy's command to escape. All day long detachments of Gen. Milroy's command, who had not fought that morning, were brought in, until in all the captured forces numbered 5,000 men. During the fighting Capt. Bowen of the eighteenth, with two companies, charged upon a company of confederate sharpshooters, securely posted, and got back to the Union lines with fifteen prisoners. It is said the confederates cheered loudly the Union lines with fifteen prisoners. It is said the confederates cheered loudly over their victory, but Gen. Walker checked them by saying, "They had been fighting that morning only about one regiment, and that was the eighteenth Connecticut." He also said to Col. Ely: "You have made us a good deal of trouble this morning," and when the colonel gave up his sword the confederate general, observing that the hilt and blade were broken, inquired: "Colonel, when was this done?" "This morning, sir, in the fight," was the reply. Gen. Walker said: "You deserve to keep this. Here are the marks of oravery and honor. I will give orders that it be returned to you, sir."

Two or three months later it was sent through the lines under a flag of truce to the father of Col. Ely, while the was sent inforgin the lines ander a hag of truce to the father of Col. Promptly at midnight Tuesday night the entire force of compositors, pressman, stereo typers and other attaches of the mechan ical departments of the New York World went out on a strike and at 12:45 work in the building was at a standstill. The strike was a sympathetic one with the employes

The trouble started several weeks ago, when several elevator conductors struck on account of a reduction in their salaries from $12 to $10 a week.

THOROUGH INVESTIGATION REQUESTED.

A BOLD ASSERTION.

Ever since Prof. Koch startled the world by promising to cure consumption with the Koch lymph and his complete failure to do so, the people have been looking for some discovery which would prove an absolute, certain cure for that dread disease. Over a quarter of a century ago Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, put in a claim for a medicine, which he had discovered and used, in his extensive practice, that would cure ninety-eight per cent. of all cases and used, in his extensive practice, that would cure ninety-eight per cent. of all cases of consumption when taken in all its early stages. Time has proved that his assertion was based on facts gained from experience. His "Golden Medical Discovery" has cured many thousand people in all parts of the world, and Dr. Plerce invites all interested to send to him for a free book which gives the names, addresses and photographs of many prominent people who have willingly testified to the marvelous curative propermany prominent people who have willingly testified to the marvelous curative properties of his "Golden Medical Discovery." He has also written a Book of 160 pages on "Diseases of the Respiratory Organs," which treats of all Throat, Bronchial and Lung diseases, also Asthma and Catarrh, that will be mailed by the World's Dispensary Medical Association of Buffalo, N.Y., on receipt of six cents in stamps, to pay postage.

Consumption, as most everybody knowa, is first manifested by feeble vitality, loss of strength, emaciation; then local symptoms soon develop, as cough, difficult breathing, or bleeding from lungs, when investigation proves that tubercular deposits have formed in the lungs. It is earnestly advised that the "Discovery" be taken early and the latter stages of the earnestly advised that the "Discovery" be taken early and the latter stages of the disease can thereby be easily avoided.

To build up solid flesh and strength after the grip, pneumonia, ("lung fever"), exhausting fevers, and other prostrating diseases, it has no equal. It does not make fat like cod liver oil and its nasty compounds, but, solid, wholesome flesh.
